AUDITORS' REPORT.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF QUINCY:—

The undersigned, Auditors of Accounts, appointed at the annual town meeting in March, 1881, respectfully report that they have examined the accounts of the Treasurer, and find the same correctly kept, with proper vouchers for all payments. We find that the amount of cash on hand by his report is at his credit in bank.

They have examined the accounts of the Treasurer of the Woodward Fund, and find that he has proper vouchers for all payments; that the balance of cash on hand is deposited in bank, and that the securities in his possession agree with the schedule given in his statement.

They find that the Treasurer of the Sinking Fund has a note, secured by mortgage, for the amount of the principal of the Fund, and that his report shows the present condition of the Fund.

They have scrutinized and verified the accompanying account of the Selectmen, and find proper vouchers for all payments made by them. The account is correct and properly kept, and the amount of money there stated as drawn by the Selectmen from the Treasurer corresponds with the amount charged to them on his books.

In accordance with a vote of the town at the annual town meeting in 1877, the Auditors find it their duty to report that the Selectmen, Messrs. William A. Hodges, William N. Eaton, and Alfred Sampson, have exceeded the appropriations in the following accounts:—

Support of poor,	$2,850 11
Repairs of highways,	288 34
Re-grading Washington street,	83 33
Repairs at Bit,	51 48

Laying out Appleton street,	$14 01

New Almshouse,	214 98
State aid to indigent soldiers,	151 50
Purchase of land from H. H. Faxon,	179 11
Suit of Donnelly vs. Field et als ,	100 00

The net amount of the town debt has been decreased $176.92 during the past year, making it now $26,293.75.

The actual amount owed by the town is, as per statement of Town debt, page 83, $61,370.11 against $61,793.33 last year, showing a decrease of $423.22. The amount of town notes has been decreased $300.00 during the year.

JOHN CHAMBERLIN,

CHAS. H. PORTER,

H. A. KEITH,

Auditors of Accounts.

SELECTMEN'S REPORT.

TO THE INHABITANTS OF QUINCY :—

The Selectmen, Overseers of the Poor, and Surveyors of Highways, respectfully submit their annual report. In their judgment, the following matters call for the attention of the town.

The large amount expended for the support of poor has been caused in part by certain expenses considered necessary on the Alms-house grounds, such as grading, building road, &c., and cistern, and new household effects called for by the removal to the new Alms-house. This building is complete, and in the opinion of the Overseers will furnish accommodations and meet all requirements for some time to come. They would recommend an appropriation of $1,000 for removing the old buildings, finishing the grading and purchasing additional outfit.

It will be noticed that the appropriation for street lights has been exceeded. This is an account which is hardly within the control of the Selectmen. By vote of the town passed some years ago, any person erecting a lamp-post and maintaining a street light, receives pay therefor. They deem it proper to recommend this matter to the consideration of the town.

The Surveyors recommend some change in the system of making repairs of highways. Suitable gravel for road-use is now very scarce, and it seems time to consider whether it would not be advisable soon to build some lasting form of roadway. In order that the citizens of the town may see for themselves what plan would be the best, the Surveyors recommend that an appropriation be made at the next town meeting, to macadamize about one-quarter of a mile on one of our most travelled streets.

The increasing expense for removal of snow would seem to call for some definite action by the town. The Surveyors should have an expression of opinion by the town in regard to the amount of work to be done in removing snow from sidewalks.

In view of the large and increasing number of calls upon the Selectmen in their capacity as a Board of Health, they consider it important for the town to elect a separate Board to attend to that department of its business.

WILLIAM A. HODGES,
WILLIAM N. EATON,
ALFRED SAMPSON.

The sum of $170 has been received for seventeen lots sold the past year.

The sum of $971.75 has been charged for labor on lots, including the amount charged for grading the lots sold, of which sum $843.25 has been collected, leaving $128.50 due.

The sum of $100 has been added to the "Repair Fund," which now amounts to $875, the income of which will pay for "perpetual care" for the ten lots designated by the depositors of the money.

To complete improvements now in progress on the grounds for purchase of and setting out trees, and for improvements and enlargements contemplated, the Board of Managers respectfully request an appropriation of $1000.

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library ask leave to offer their second annual report ; being the eleventh report of the whole series since the Library was established.

During the year 1881 the Library was open 305 days, and the whole number of books borrowed from it was 52,609, being an increase of about 2,000 over the preceding year. The number of books borrowed in each of the last seven years has been as follows : —

1876,	42,968
1877,	45,637
1878,	46,662
1879,	50,466
1880,	50,644
1881.	52,609

The number of names registered is 5,170, an increase of 440 over the number registered a year ago. The total expenses of the Library proper have been $2,563.57, as will be seen in the detailed statement presented in the Treasurer's report. The total expenses of the Library in each of the last five years have been as follows : —

1877,	$3,060 50
1878,	2,840 59
1879,	2,678 21
1880,	2,718 45
1881,	2,653 57

During the same five years the division of reading matter under the different heads has been as follows : —

		1881.	1880.	1879.	1878.	1877.
Fiction,	vols.	24,051	24,255	23,909	22,241	24,546

Medic'l and Educat'l "		210	134	131	93	68

The extremely encouraging increase year by year in the demand, as shown in this table, for books of the more solid and instructive character should not escape notice. The entire growth in circulation, since 1877, has been in works other than those of Fiction. In 1877 the volumes of Fiction borrowed were 34,587; they were 34,924 in 1881. Between the same periods the increase in demand for books relating to History has been 25 per cent.; of those of General Literature, 50 per cent.; while the demand for Religious and Educational works, though still small, has doubled and trebled. The circulation of the works included between History and Educational in the division of the above list has, in fact, since 1877 increased 36 per cent.; while that of Fiction has stood still. This increase in the circulation of works of the more solid class has also been regular and steady, seeming to indicate an improvement of tone on the part of those making use of the Library. That is, a generation is now coming forward in the town which has grown up with the Library, and consequently knows better how to avail itself of its contents.

Thirteen copies of the catalogue and seven of the supplement were sold during the year. The amount received from this source was $12.05, and has been credited to the catalogue fund, which now amounts to $340.55. During the year two lists of books for the use of the children in the public schools were printed under the direction of the trustees, and their cost will be charged to this fund. One of these lists contained works in juvenile fiction; the other, biographies, histories and books of a more instructive character. All the works included in these lists, some 500 in number, were selected by the trustees, to whose charge the work was more particularly entrusted with the utmost care, as being such as they would put in the hands of their own children. The lists thus prepared were then given to the teachers of the schools for gratuitous circulation among their scholars.

It is now three years since the last supplement to the catalogue was published. A new one is needed to make accessible the recent additions to the Library. This the trustees propose to prepare as soon as the removal to the Crane Hall is effected, so that any changes found necessary in numbering and shelving can be introduced. The second supplement will, therefore, probably be printed next autumn. The money in the Catalogue Fund will more than suffice to pay for it.

There are no bills whatever outstanding and unpaid against the Library; and but one, of about $50, against the Catalogue Fund.

At the time the last report of the trustees was submitted, it was supposed that the Crane Hall would be completed, and the Library removed to it, before the close of the year 1881. It has, however, only been completed while this report is in preparation, and is not yet ready for transfer to the trustees. That transfer will, however, probably take place before the annual town meeting. The delay has been due to causes with which the trustees had little disposition to find fault. In fact, they presume it is well known to the town that when the Crane Hall is completed, it will far exceed in size, cost, and elaboration of finish, ornament and furniture anything which the representatives of Mr. Crane's family ever promised or led the town to expect. Their design grew on their hands. Under these circumstances it was not for the trustees to criticise delay, or to hurry matters. On the contrary, each new delay indicated a development of the original design. Finally, as the work went on, and the excellence of the finish became apparent, the trustees lost no opportunity to encourage delay, rather than to urge haste. The walls of the building are of stone and brick. Its interior is sheathed or laid with closely set and quite elaborate wood-work. It seemed of the utmost importance in work of this character that ample time for seasoning should be allowed. The walls should have had ample time in which to dry before the wood-work was put in. When the corner stone of the edifice was laid, on the 22d of February last, the foundations of the building only were above the ground. In the succeeding eleven months the whole superstructure has been completed. The trustees would willingly have seen the work delayed for another season, and think it would have proved good policy in the end had it been so delayed. Mrs. Crane and her two sons, however, thought otherwise. They considered themselves under a certain obligation as to the time within which the building was promised to be ready, and, under the circumstances, the trustees could only indicate their entire satisfaction with any course pursued. It may not be improper to say that, when completed according to the present plans, the cost of the building will be between two and three times what the town had been originally led to believe it might expect.

While the legal transfer to the trustees will probably be made before the 1st of March, the formal transfer and dedication of the building will be deferred until May. The trustees understand that it would be agreeable to Mrs. Crane and her sons if if this were made a part of the Decoration Day proceedings. A motion to that effect will accordingly be brought before the town at the coming March meeting.

The town at its last annual meeting appropriated a sum of $500, in addition to the regular Library appropriation, to meet the exceptional expenses incident to removal. This sum, as appears in the Treasurer's report, is now intact in the hands of the trustees. As to what the regular and ordinary expenses of the Library will be during the first year of the occupation of the new building, the trustees have no means of reliable estimate. The rent of the edifice now occupied will have to be paid for the entire year ending May 31st next, the whole payment coming out of the appropriation for the coming year. For a considerable portion of the year both buildings will have to be maintained. Under these circumstances, desiring to be on the safe side, the trustees would ask for an appropriation of $2,500 to meet the regular and ordinary expenses of the coming year.

The receipts and expenditures of the past year are set forth in detail in the accompanying report of the Treasurer.

By order of the Trustees.

C. F. ADAMS, JR.,
Chairman.

REPORT OF THE MANAGERS OF ADAMS ACADEMY.

The Managers of Adams Academy, in presenting their annual report, congratulate their fellow-townsmen upon the good work that has been done during the past year. Considering the limited means at its disposal, they are satisfied that no endowed school in the country can show to equal advantage. This is of course largely owing to the generous devotedness of the Master, who has been willing to make many personal sacrifices for the welfare of the institution in his charge.

The exceptional severity of the winter of 1880-81, which caused a large expenditure for heating the building, left only $600 available for scholarships. This defrayed the expenses of eight pupils from the Town of Quincy. A fee of $75 was promptly paid by the parents of five others. One gentleman choosing to pay the full fee of $100, the balance of $25 was added to the income available for our boys.

The Managers cannot better show the condition of the school than by inserting a liberal extract from the report which Mr. Everett has made to their Board.

"Previous to the closing exercises of the school, two of the graduating class were admitted to Amherst College. Immediately after it, the mass of the boys, thirteen in all, applied at Harvard College, and were admitted with very gratifying success. Five entered without conditions, three of them very brilliantly. Of these Arthur Keith, of Quincy, is truly a pupil of the school, having been through our four years' course with unbroken honor. Shortly after another of the graduating class was admitted to Williams College. Still another, who had been suspended for insubordination, was allowed to return and receive the honorable dismissal of the school in September. He was admitted to Harvard College with two conditions.

"A large contingent from the second class tried the preliminary examinations, and with very gratifying success, much beyond recent experience. Two of these, WILLIAM SAMUEL PINKHAM and ARTHUR CURTIS SPRAGUE of Wollaston, have reflected unbroken credit on the town and school from their entrance.

"The close of the school year left us regretting the loss of Mr. Josiah Quincy, Jr., our esteemed associate and fellow-citizen. He has connected himself with the Cambridge Law School, carrying with him the entire respect of all our members for his intelligence, kindness and fidelity. His place is filled by Mr. William Henry Schaefer, a teacher of much experience and acuteness, formerly at St. Mark's School, Southboro'.

"At the beginning of the year two points were noticeable as to the new scholars. First, the average of them was much younger than it has been since the discontinuance of the preparatory department. This is decidedly as we wish it. Old boys, who come for a year or two, by way of finishing the course of other institutions are not nearly so desirable, either for scholarship or discipline, as younger ones, who can receive our entire training. One application this year from a youth who had entered prematurely at Williams College, and been dropped after one term's residence, I at once declined. After tasting college liberty, it would be very strange if any young man became suitable for school discipline.

"Secondly, our Quincy contingent was smaller this year than for some time back. I have never received any but the kindest criticism from my fellow-citizens: but I have been led to think that some of them doubt the 'usefulness' of our course, and partake the periodical scare about 'its taking a great while to get to college,' and 'what good will Greek do a boy?' I have indeed had it suggested that we should substitute bookkeeping for Greek; that is, a branch purely mechanical, involving no literary, historical or scientific principle beyond simple arithmetic, which can be learned in a few months, and will perforce be untaught in any real business establishment, for an acquaintance with the most musical, precise, and copious of languages, reflecting the thoughts of the most brilliant people that ever lived, the inventors of art, science, eloquence and free institutions.

"Our course is an enlargement and expansion of that desired by our founder. It is based on the requirements of Harvard College. It combines history and language, ancient and modern, with science, pure and practical. Those who carry it through will not be fitted for any special trade or profession, nor taught to make a fortune ; but they will learn how to spend one generously when they have made it, and how to rest their interests on higher things if they never make it.

"I have also had some suggestions, most tenderly made, that our boys are worked too hard. I earnestly hope not. If any boy obviously is so, I am entirely ready and glad to have him slacken till he is recruited. But I would respectfully suggest that many boys come to us who have not been worked hard enough,—who have not had habits of reasonably strict application inculcated, and have become too dependent on their teachers for the conduct of their mental processes.

"I believe no boy, who is willing to work, who is willing to attend, and who is willing to care for something outside the present hour and the immediate spot, can fail to pay his own way through our school, and to leave it with a mind keener, broader, deeper, and better fitted for any walk of life,—and that with no sacrifice of amusement or health."

The Managers would call attention to a volume of School Sermons, just issued from the press. They show that Dr. Everett's concern for his pupils extends to higher interests than their scholarship. The services at which these discourses have been given are held at the boarding-house every Sunday evening at half-past seven o'clock. Parents, or other citizens, who may feel an interest in attending them, are cordially invited to do so.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE FOR PROTECTION FROM FIRE.

THE Committee to whom was referred articles Nos. 11, 12 and 17 of Town the Warrant of 1881, submit the following report :

At a meeting of the committee, a series of questions was sent to the Chief Engineers of towns and cities which answered to the following conditions : (1) Of relatively same population. (2) Of relatively same valuation. Thirty-five towns and cities were sent to for information.

The answers were quite the same. The towns and cities generally having a Steam Fire Engine with horses, either stationed in the House or used for Highway purposes, but never allowed to go more than a given distance from the Engine House in the day-time, and at night always in the House ready for duty. Other towns have made arrangements with Livery Stables or Expressmen who have agreed to keep a pair of horses in their stables, and, in case of fire, go to engine house, hitch on to the engine and then proceed to the fire.

There are five or six towns which keep men on duty at all hours of the day and night, horses always in the house, harnesses of the most approved pattern, and known as swing harnesses, in use.

In addition there is in various towns a system of water supply for domestic and fire use.

Where there is this valuable assistance to the Fire Department, Hose Carriages are the only means used in addition to the Steamer.

In the outlying districts, Hand or Chemical Engines are stationed in towns without water supply.

It was also found that the means usually relied on for giving alarms in case of fire were whistles, gongs and bells.

Your Committee are convinced that no town which is desirous of protecting its inhabitants when fires occur, can consider their department at all efficient unless a good Steam Fire Engine is a part of the same, and we believe that the town should purchase one and locate the same at some convenient place, having due reference to all the conditions of territory and population.

The Committee of 1876 were unanimous in recommending the purchase of an engine, and this committee reiterate their conclusion and believe that the lapse of 6 years has only added to the need of the same.

The problem of extinguishing fire, so far as it relates to the centre of the town, has undergone material change since that report was made.

Iron pipes have been laid in the main street for nearly a mile, served by a stationary engine, and which when called upon has done most excellent duty.

It is an unquestioned fact that had the Town been in possession of a steam fire engine in December, 1880, that a large loss sustained at that time, amounting to quite $7,000, would not have exceeded $3,000; a saving of quite $4,000 would have been made, a sum which is more than large enough to purchase an engine capable of throwing 500 gallons of water per minute.

It is undoubtedly true that with a greater power of extinguishing fire, in order to make the same effective, there must be a good water supply.

Quincy is most favorably situated in this respect.

Through its entire width from west to east, there are two watercourses which are never dry. With a slight husbanding of these streams, a sufficient supply equal to any emergency could be had. The expense for such water ways would be very slight.

It is a fact that cannot be successfully refuted, that a steam fire engine can go to any spot that a hand fire engine can, and when in position do its work much more efficiently.

No one for a moment will contend that the hand engine equals the steam engine in execution.

When we know that a steam fire engine will play a good fire stream through more than 200 feet of hose, the comparison becomes ridiculous.

To secure the greatest efficiency, three conditions are necessary in addition to those that have already been stated.

(1) An early alarm which shall bring the apparatus on the ground at the earliest moment.

(2) The necessity of having at least one man on duty with the machine, Horses always at hand, and the latest approved Harnesses.

(3) The arrival of Hose to be coincident with arrival of Engine.

The surest and most reliable method of giving a fire alarm is by the Electric Fire Alarm Telegraph. Nothing yet devised can equal it in promptness. Such a system can be put into use in our town and at no great expense; adding to efficiency of the steam fire engine to such a degree, that all portions of our town can be protected without any further addition to our force.

As an example let us take the late fire in Wollaston, in January last. A house with a portion of its contents was destroyed and a loss of at least $12,000 was incurred. The alarm was given by the bell at that place at 8.35 P.M.; at 9.10 the first alarm was given in the centre of the town; at 9.45 the first piece of apparatus from the town neared the fire. The Chemical Engine, stationed at Wollaston, was on the ground and was doing good service. From the figures herein given, it appears that it was over one hour before anything was on the ground to do duty, and the distance to be travelled was about 1 1-4 miles.

Had a Steam Fire Engine, with horses, a Fire Alarm Telegraph been in operation, and a Horse Hose Carriage been in our department, it is well within the bounds of reason to say that in fifteen minutes from the discovery of the fire, the alarm could have been given, the engine on the ground and at work, and a loss of not over $2,000 incurred. A saving of $10,000 would have been made,—a sum large enough to purchase and put in condition all suggested above.

The Hook and Ladder truck now in use in our department is ill suited to the needs of the service.

To rebuild and put it in condition suitable for efficient duty, it would be at as great a cost as to purchase a new one.

Your committee therefore recommend that a new one be obtained.

In conclusion, your committee submit the following recommendations to the town :—

(1) That a Steam Fire Engine be purchased ; that Horses be purchased for the same, and that a permanent man be always on duty with said piece of apparatus.

(2) That the W. M. French Hose Co. be reorganized ; that a horse be purchased and put in the House now occupied by the Company, and that a permanent man be stationed with this piece of apparatus, unless the Town decides to place the Hose Co. as it would be organized, and the Steamer in the same building.

(3) That a new Hook and Ladder Truck be purchased for the Hook & Ladder Co.

(4) That a Telegraphic Fire Alarm be established in the town.

EXPENSE.

Your Committee believe that the amounts herein given will be sufficient to carry out the schemes above mentioned.

Steam Engine,	$4,000 00
Two Horses,	600 00
Harnesses and incidentals,	300 00
	————	$4,900 00

Horse, W. M. French Hose Co.,	$300 00
Hook and Ladder Truck,	800 00
Electrical Fire Alarm,	3,000 00
	————	$4,100 00

Making a total of		$9,000 00
-------------------	--	------------

It is estimated that it will require an annual expenditure of about $2,100 to maintain the Steam Engine and Hose Co., divided as follows : —

3 Horses @ $3 per week,	$458 00
2 permanent men @ $650 each,	1300 00
Hosemen for Engine and Hose Co., 8 in number,	80 00
Fuel, incidentals, repairs, &c.,	262 00
	$2,100 00

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON ENLARGEMENT OF THE TOWN HALL.

The Committee appointed by the Town two years since to consider the subject of enlarging the Town Hall, reported to the last annual meeting that in case the Town should decide at some future time that more room was required for the adequate accommodation of the voters in Town meeting, they should recommend an extension of the present building to the rear about twenty-four feet, and the addition of a projection on the north to enclose the stairways and rostrum, and for that purpose they suggested the expediency of buying from Mr. H. H. Faxon strips of land lying northerly and westerly of the Hall. This purchase was accordingly ordered by the Town, and has been made. The Town at the same time instructed the same Committee to obtain detailed plans and estimates of the proposed alterations. And as it was found that the southwesterly corner of the enlarged structure would necessarily encroach a little upon the old burial-ground, it was needful that the Town should obtain the consent of the Legislature before it could appropriate any part of that enclosure to any purpose other than the repose of the dead who are there buried. For although the fee in this land is vested in the corporate body of inhabitants, yet individuals whose ancestors or relatives are there interred have doubtless the right to protect their ashes from disturbance. And although the invasion contemplated by the Town stopped short of any violation of grave or tomb, it has been made absolutely unlawful in any event by an enactment of the year 1880. A petition, therefore, praying for such a license, was prepared and submitted to the General Court now in session, and after proper hearing the requisite permission was accorded.

The Committee have also obtained plans of the proposed alterations, which will be placed in convenient situations for the examination of the citizens. For the information, however, of such as may not have an opportunity to study these drawings, it seems proper to give a brief description of their general features. Firstly, the Town House is extended directly backward twenty-four feet by moving the rear wall and extending the side walls in conformity exactly with its existing architecture. Secondly, a projection of stone, in a style conformable to the rest of the house, measuring twenty-seven feet six inches in width, by a depth from the face of the wall of fourteen feet six inches, is to be added to the north wall of the house, a breach of that width being made in that side of the building. This projection will enclose the new stairway to the Town Hall above, and the access to the lesser room below, known as the Lyceum Hall, and the other rooms and offices in the basement of the building. Upon that floor the Selectmen will obtain an inner office in the space vacated by the removal of the old stairway to the hall. The room of the School Committee and the premises occupied by the Mount Wollaston Bank will remain undisturbed, and suitable accommodation for the Superintendent of Schools may be furnished, while the area at our disposal for other purposes will admit of a considerable extension of the Lyceum Hall, with the necessary dressing-rooms and other offices. The Town Hall proper will be enlarged by the whole space now under the gallery and invaded by the existing entrance steps and gallery-stairs, by the space at the west end of the hall now covered by the platform and used for the two stairways to the floor below, and also by a clear addition of twenty-four feet in length at the rear of the present west wall.

Almost all of this floor will be as convenient for seeing and hearing all the proceedings in Town meeting as an average of the most eligible seats in the best part of the existing hall, and the actual seating capacity for voters in Town meeting will be nearly doubled, as the new platform will be recessed back from the rectangular area of the hall floor almost entirely, and confined to the projection to be built in the middle of the north wall of the enlarged structure. The old gallery will be removed, and the new hall will be lighted in great part by large high windows at the north and south ends of the room.

The architect strongly recommends the removal of the present ceiling of the hall, and raising it considerably above the cross-beams, leaving them exposed, thereby adding greatly to the ventilation, acoustics, and appearance of the place. Such an alteration, managed with taste and judgment, would certainly remove much of the present flat and bare effect, and add greatly to the interest and comfort of the interior, but it is not essential to the plan. The exterior changes, it is confidently believed, will considerably embellish the somewhat stern and classical elegance of the old edifice.

In coming to the very important question of cost, your Committee have deemed it their duty to estimate it from the best data in their possession, and at the same time to so far amplify the most reliable computations as to feel themselves justified in assuring the Town that in no probable event can the sum they have fixed be exceeded. They believe that the entire work can be completed in every respect to the satisfaction of the people of Quincy for the sum of thirteen thousand dollars.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

In June last, Mr. J. Q. Adams, having resigned his position as a member of the School Committee, the remaining members of the Board, with the Selectmen in convention, unanimously elected Mr. Sigourney Butler to fill the vacancy for the remainder of the municipal year.

Elected a member of the Committee in 1857, 1859 and 1860, and serving continuously since 1870, Mr. Adams has given to the town and the schools a valuable service of nearly fifteen years, during eleven of which he has been Chairman of the Board. He early realized the economy of placing our schools under trained and competent supervision, and when in 1875 the town, adopting the recommendation of the School Committee authorized the employment of a Superintendent, his influential and hearty support of the new officer contributed largely to the very marked success of the experiment. His retirement is much regretted by his associates of the Committee, by the Superintendent and teachers, and by all connected with, or interested in, the public schools.

It is gratifying to us, as we feel sure it will be to the town, to have the assurance of Mr. Adams, when severing his connection with the schools, that his interest in their welfare is unabated and that at no time during his term of service have they been in a more satisfactory and encouraging condition.

In the last report of the Committee reference was made to the injury to our schools arising from the constant change of teachers. We have hoped that this was a temporary evil, but we find it otherwise. The reputation of the Quincy school, having gone abroad, committees and superintendents of various cities and towns, having a wish to try what they are pleased to call "the new system," naturally look to us to furnish teachers who are trained to the work.

During the two years of Mr. Brown's superintendency twenty-six teachers have left us, the larger portion to accept better positions and higher salaries elsewhere: while others, refusing tempting offers made them from abroad, have remained with us at a considerable financial sacrifice. As has been often said, it is useless for us to undertake to compete with the cities and richer towns in the matter of salaries. We have a very large school population in proportion to our valuation, and while our neighbors of Milton can, with an assessment for schools of but one and three-tenths mills on the dollar, make an appropriation of twenty-six dollars for each child between five and fifteen years of age, we, with an assessment of nearly three times that amount, can spend upon each scholar but fifteen and one-half dollars. But while we cannot attempt to compete with these richer towns in bidding for the services of teachers, we have felt that when an exceptionally good teacher was willing to remain with us at a salary considerably less than had been offered elsewhere, it was but fair and reasonable that we should to some extent, and so far as we were able, make recompense for the sacrifice. It is for the town to decide to what extent we shall be able to carry out this policy in the future.

We have met with a serious loss during the past year in the death of Mrs. Mary T. Dewing of the Willard School. That she has served the town long and well is shown by the satisfactory accounts given of her school in former reports of the School Committee. As long ago as 1853 the Hon. Charles Francis Adams, then Chairman of the Board, writing of the South District, said, "The district has been singularly fortunate in the selection of a teacher in Miss Beal, . . . during the whole of the year her school has presented to the Committee the uniform aspect of a MODEL of its kind." In 1860 the Committee speak of her as "a very peculiarly good teacher," and in 1861, "There is an unmistakable superiority in the school kept by Miss Beal; . . . she seems to have a genius for her profession, which enables her with ease to reach a degree of pre-eminence above ordinary good schools."

The services of Mrs. Dewing in more recent years are truthfully presented in the report of the Superintendent, whose personal association with her while Principal of the Willard School, and later as Superintendent, has given him especial opportunity to appreciate her worth. Of a service covering a period of thirty years, it is fitly said of the beginning, "Her school was a model of its kind," and of the close, "She excelled in her profession."

In their report to the town at the close of the school year 1879, the School Committee, referring to the enlargement of the Adams School-house in accordance with a vote of the town at the previous annual meeting, expressed the opinion that the accommodations thus furnished were sufficient for the wants of that part of the town for many years to come. But the number of children in this district between the ages of five and fifteen, which, on the first day of May, 1878, was but three hundred and sixty-five, had on the first of May, 1881, increased to four hundred and thirty-nine; while the number of pupils of the lowest grade in the school increased from seventy-five in the summer of 1879, to one hundred and fifty in the summer of 1881. Realizing the necessity of some immediate provision for this rapidly increasing number, the Committee during the past year have finished, at a moderate expense, a pleasant and convenient room in the attic of the building, and by removing the older pupils to the upper rooms, sufficient accommodations are provided below for the present needs of the lower classes.

At the last March meeting an appropriation of $750 was made for providing additional accommodations at the Willard School. It was thought at that time that a small room might be finished in the present building, sufficient for present absolute wants; thus postponing any considerable outlay in this district for a few years longer. But the rapid increase of children in this part of the town makes it evident that something more must be done. The number between the ages of five and fifteen on the first day of May last was six hundred and eleven, while by the enumeration of 1878 it was but four hundred and seventy-eight; showing an increase in three years of one hundred and thirty-three, or twenty-eight per cent. Under these circumstances the Committee have thought it unwise to spend much money on what at best would be but a temporary makeshift; they have thought it better to get along as best they could through the present year, and to ask the town for an appropriation sufficient, not only to meet properly our present needs, but to make also some provision for the inevitable future.

This we think can be done economically by extending the present building toward the street in front, a distance of sixty feet, with a width of forty-two feet; making the extension the same size as the original building. This will give four light and convenient rooms, two of which are absolutely needed for immediate use; the others may remain unfurnished until they are wanted. This addition can be made, including the furnishing of two rooms, at an expense not exceeding $6000, and we would recommend an appropriation of that amount for this purpose.

It has been necessary to spend a portion of the appropriation of $750 for furniture for pressing needs, and for some slight repairs, all of which is of permanent value; the balance remains in the treasury.

For several years the Committee have endeavored to reduce the expenditure for the transportation of children. The village of Germantown, isolated and at a distance from any school except the Washington,—with which at present there is no practicable means of communication,—is clearly one of those cases which the law authorizing this expenditure was intended to meet.

The children from a small settlement near Granite Bridge having a considerable distance to walk, over a road but little travelled, and through a section but sparsely inhabited, it has been thought reasonable that through the most inclement season they should be provided with conveyance to the school at Atlantic to which they belong. To these two sections the outlay had been pretty much confined, until there arose at Squantum a state of things which made — at least in the minds of the people of that section — a necessity for a considerable additional expenditure.

The residents of this part of the town have in the past, from time to time, asked of the Committee some provision for the conveyance of their children. The increase of population, incident to the construction of the Boston sewer, furnished an additional argument in favor of their claim, particularly as it was urged that under existing circumstances, it was hardly safe for their children to travel unattended over the road to school.

After careful consideration, we have thought it advisable to make for the present the same provision for the scholars at Moon Island and Squantum, as has been made for those at Hough's Neck and Germantown. This unexpected outlay has caused our expenditure for transportation to exceed the estimate made at the beginning of the year, and will, if continued, necessitate an increased appropriation for that purpose for the year ensuing.

There was placed at the disposal of the School Committee at the last annual town meeting, for all purposes, the sum of $37,000. There has been received from the State school fund, $198.12, and from the Coddington land, $75 ; making the whole amount to be accounted for, $37,273.12.

There has been expended $36,861.08, as follows : —

For Teachers' salaries,	$24,279 64
Fuel,	1,566 71
Care of rooms,	1,997 92
Books and stationery,	809 22
Incidental expenses,	2,216 33
Transportation of pupils,	798 00
Repairs,	2,383 76
Willard School,	309 50
Out-house at High School,	500 00
Salary of Superintendent,	2,000 00	$36,861 08
Balance unexpended,		412 04
		$37,273 12

The expenditure for fuel has exceeded our estimate by nearly $300, which is accounted for by the exceptionally cold weather of the spring and early summer ; the expense of finishing a room at the Adams School, for which no provision was made, has caused an overrun in the item for repairs ; and the conveyance of children from Squantum has unexpectedly added some $200 to the outlay for transportation. These amounts are offset, however, by a saving of a like amount from the estimate made for teachers' salaries.

To conduct our schools in a satisfactory manner for the ensuing year, your Committee are of the opinion that the following sums will be required : —

For Teachers' salaries, fuel, and care of rooms,	$30,600
Incidental expenses,	2,500
Transportation of pupils,	900
Books and stationery,	800
Repairs of buildings,	2,000
Superintendent's salary,	2,000
	$38,800

To which should be added, for addition to Willard
School-house,	$6,000

Reference to the following table, giving for four years the number of children in the town between five and fifteen, on the first day of May, will show, that though our school expenses have increased from year to year, the increase is far below that of the school population.

	1878.	1879.	1880.	1881.

Three years ago, the previous enumeration, showing the number of children to be one thousand six hundred and forty-nine, the town appropriated for the usual school expenses the sum of $34,000 ; with two thousand one hundred and thirty-seven children we now advise an appropriation of $38,800, showing, with an increase in the number of children of more than twenty-nine per cent, an increase in the estimate of but fourteen per cent. An increased number of scholars necessarily requires more teachers, more rooms, and more fuel ; each new pupil must be seated, and more tools must be provided with which to do the work.

Thus any considerable increase in the number to be educated necessitates an increased expenditure in nearly every item of the account.

The prevalence of epidemic diseases among children during the past year has reduced somewhat the average school attendance, and as the expenses necessarily continue the same, the amount expended upon each pupil actually present has consequently been slightly increased.

Though we have fortunately thus far had no case of small-pox in our midst, its unusual prevalence in other sections prompts the Committee to call the attention of parents to the following State law enacted for the protection of their children.

“The School Committee shall not allow a child, who has not been duly vaccinated, to be admitted to or connected with the public schools.” — Public Statutes, Chap. 47, Sec. 9.

The detail of the year's work and progress, together with valuable suggestions relative to the schools, will be found in the report of the Superintendent hereto annexed. In inviting especial attention to this, his second report, the Committee desire again to bear testimony to the tact and intelligent industry with which Mr. Brown is prosecuting his work. In expressing our entire satisfaction with the result of his two years of service, we would not overlook the assistance rendered by the faithful corps of teachers, who, transferring to the new Superintendent the confidence and support they had so freely given his predecessor, have from the first heartily joined with him in a common labor for the common good.

In rendering to the town their account of the disbursement of the appropriation intrusted to their care, your Committee would respectfully suggest, that inasmuch as the taxpayers are wont to examine and criticise the work of officials intrusted with the expenditure of public money, they should also visit the schools and see for themselves the amount of work accomplished, and the manner in which it is done. We feel confident that after such an examination, our fellow citizens will join with us in the conclusion, that the town is receiving a fair and valuable equivalent for the money expended for the education of its children.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT.

REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT.

Gentlemen of the School Board: —

My Second Annual Report, the seventh report of the Superintendent of Schools, is respectfully submitted.

In accordance with your request that I should state to what extent the recommendations made in my report of last year have been carried out, I will briefly present the matter in detail. You will remember that more emphasis was given to the necessity for the study of drawing than to any other recommendation which was made; accordingly the sum of five hundred dollars was appropriated, in order that our teachers might be instructed so that hereafter they could carry on the work by themselves the same as in any other study. No person was favorably recommended to your notice until the beginning of the present term, owing to the fact that until that time no person was found in whose hands I was willing to place the work. By your recent action appointing Mr. C. M. Carter to fill this position, you have secured the services of a man in whom you can place the utmost confidence. Mr. Carter is employed by the State Board of Education three and one-half days each week, and devotes one and one-half days to our schools. Of this time, one-half day each week is spent in teaching at the High School, and the remainder of the time is given to the instruction of teachers in the primary and grammar schools. Besides this work in the schools, Mr. Carter has arranged for a course of eight lessons to be given to the teachers, at the Coddington School-house, under the auspices of the State Board of Education, free of expense to us. It is evident that in so short a time but little can have been accomplished, yet a marked degree of enthusiasm is manifested by both teachers and pupils, and we have reason to hope for much in the future if, by the wisdom of your Board and the liberality of the Town, the services of Mr. Carter are continued the coming year.

My suggestion of last year with regard to instruction in Civil Government has been carried out, and a sufficient number of copies of "Martin's Civil Government" has been purchased to place one in the hands of each A Grammar pupil in all the schools. The principals have been instructed to see that their pupils obtained such a knowledge of this subject as would enable them to become intelligent citizens; accordingly the pupils are prepared to correctly state the qualifications necessary to enable persons to become eligible to the principal offices and positions of trust and honor in our Town, State and National Governments, and also to describe the manner in which these officials are elected. To further create an interest in matters of importance to every citizen, the principals are requested to keep daily before the minds of their pupils the chief events of political and historical interest now occurring, and on this the pupils are expected to be prepared for examination at any time.

A good beginning has been made in singing in a number of the schools, and all are in advance of the position they held one year ago. So much progress has not been made as could be desired, on account of the inability of many teachers to teach the subject properly. As in all other studies, ability to give instruction in singing depends largely upon the ambition the teachers have to succeed. We look forward to a good degree of improvement in the future, as much anxiety is manifested by the teachers to teach this subject as well as they are teaching other studies. Mr. Holt, the successful teacher of music in the Boston public schools, is giving a course of lessons at the English High School Saturdays, and has kindly extended an invitation to the teachers of Quincy to be present. Notwithstanding the expense, and the extra tax upon their time, all of our teachers have expressed a willingness to attend, and from this we have great hopes that success will follow their efforts.

It was formerly believed that all persons could not become proficient in penmanship, but that excellence in this could be attained only by those who had a natural aptitude in this direction. The writing in our schools has for a long time been a subject for special commendation, and it may be stated as a matter of fact that no pupil who has been a constant attendant in the schools has graduated for a number of years from the grammar department who could be called a poor writer, thus proving that all children can be taught to write well. Heretofore, however, our children have lacked the ability to write with that rapidity it is desirable that they should attain. The first result to be reached is accuracy so far as practicable, and when this has been accomplished rapidity is of great importance. Improvement in rapid writing has been gradually made during the year, and while the quality of the work has not deteriorated, in many schools the time required has been greatly reduced; indeed, an examination paper that required three hours for its completion one year ago, is easily done now in half that time. This skill in the use of the pen will receive renewed attention the coming year. In nearly all the schools the pen to a considerable degree displaces the pencil after the pupils enter upon their fourth school year. The work was so well done by pupils of this grade, that in two schools of the B Primary grade trial was made to ascertain what degree of proficiency could be attained there. This experiment having been proved a success, all teachers of this grade will at once enter upon the same kind of work. Teachers should bear in mind that in writing especially, the children should have a good example before them. It is noticeable in all grades that those teachers succeed best in teaching writing, attaining both excellence in work and rapidity in execution, who have best carried out the suggestions they have received with regard to their own writing. Much board writing is done by the teachers, and if this writing is done well the effect is very marked in its influence upon the pupils. In three or four rooms in Quincy the writing done by the teachers is considerably below the standard; but I hope soon to be able to report to you that these cases no longer exist.

It is now generally considered of little account if a child is unable to spell a large number of words of whose meaning he knows nothing, and which he will not have occasion to use in practical life, provided he has the ability to spell correctly the words of his own vocabulary. Notwithstanding the fact that this ability is considered the proper test of spelling, it seems almost impossible for teachers not to introduced new words to the children before the spelling of the words they use in their daily conversation has been thoroughly learned. There is no study pursued in our schools that demands more watchfulness on the part of a supervisor than the study of spelling. I have known pupils, during an exercise in language, to ask their teacher for the proper spelling of a word, and sometimes the teacher has said,— though I am happy to say not often,— do the best you can; if you think you cannot spell it correctly, try it. Anything of this kind is as fatal to progress as the old way of allowing children to try twice during a lesson in oral spelling. The child should never see the incorrect form of the word. If he cannot write the word correctly it is evident that he has not seen it a sufficient number of times, or he has not had his interest sufficiently aroused so that a clear impression has been made upon his mind, or he has seen the incorrect form of the word so many times that a false impression is mingled with the true. Whatever the cause, if the word is again misspelled, the false impression is deepened and much more time will be required to make a knowledge of the right letters of the word, properly arranged, a lasting possession. In lower grade work teachers should always be ready to write upon the board all words that the children can use orally but cannot write, or what is better, have some other child in the class write the word. In the higher grades, when pupils are engaged upon written work, they should have a dictionary ready for immediate reference, and it should be considered a very serious departure from good scholarship for the pupil to misspell a word during his stay in any class of the High or Grammar Schools.

I have recently received for examination, with special regard to the spelling, letters from all pupils in the Grammar Schools of Quincy. No examination can be given that will more plainly indicate the character of a school than this. In most of the schools the letters received were nearly perfect, and in all the schools a very large proportion of the papers did not contain a misspelled word. In the future my examinations in spelling will be partially of this character, and sentences, composed wholly of words in actual use in the school-room, will be written from dictation. Spelling is now largely taught by writing sentences instead of disconnected words, and as this seems to be the way to accomplish most, all teachers will be expected to do much of this work in the future.

The liberal appropriation for books and stationery last year has supplied us with means sufficient to add much good reading matter to our stock; and in addition to this, a set of encyclopædiæ has been placed in each building. The children are making much use of these as books of reference, and are daily learning not to rely upon other persons for information which they can find out for themselves. Our home reading has been greatly facilitated by the preparation of the Children's Book Lists under the direction of the Trustees of the Thomas Crane Public Library. Of these lists two numbers have already appeared and others are to follow. Many of these books have been on trial in our schools, as in the preparation of the lists all teachers were requested to furnish the names of those books that have been proved to be interesting and instructive. Facts are continually presenting themselves which prove that the connection between the Public Library and the Public Schools is gradually growing stronger and stronger, which must be especially gratifying to all interested in the education of the young. In this connection it may be said that the Trustees have indicated their desire to do all that lies in their power to aid the schools, and have expressed their willingness to place in the Library, for the use of teachers, Barnard's Journal of Education, in thirty volumes, which is a complete cyclopædia of educational literature. It would seem that the school department should do as much at least as the Trustees to increase the professional knowledge of its teachers. Much study upon the history, theory and practice of education is necessary on the part of teachers in order that mistakes may be avoided and the best results obtained; yet it is manifest, that a teacher on a salary of four hundred dollars or less, will have little left, after defraying expenses, to invest in books of any kind. Permit me to suggest, that a small sum of money be invested under your direction so that a few of the best works on education may be placed in the Public Library beside the books furnished by the Trustees, thus forming a nucleus around which in the future may be gathered all of those books that would be useful to teachers. Such an expenditure would be repaid a hundred fold, by increasing the efficiency of those teachers of limited experience whom necessity compels us to appoint. That there is a science of education, and an art of education founded upon such a science, no intelligent educator of the present day attempts to deny. General truths have been found "by an analytical investigation into the nature of the child as a thinking being," and these truths, which should be the guide of every teacher, are termed principles of education. How important, then, that every teacher should study these principles that none may be violated. The better our teachers are equipped with that kind of reading which will lead them to a better knowledge of these principles, the better will our children be educated.

The most serious difficulty with which we had to contend last year still continues unabated, as we have been deprived of the valuable services of twelve of our assistant teachers during the year, most of them having accepted positions, where greater salaries were offered; and now as I write, the resignation of Mr. W. M. Stevens, Principal of the Washington School, is placed before me. Mr. Stevens has accepted a position in Somerville, at an advance of sixty per cent. on his present salary. His work in Quincy has been highly successful, and wholly satisfactory to all connected with the school, and to the citizens of his district.

The loss to the children in all the schools where changes have taken place cannot be estimated, but our saddest loss was occasioned by the death of Mrs. Mary T. Dewing, who for a number of years had held a very important position in the West District. Having been associated with Mrs. Dewing as teacher in the Willard School for a considerable time, I can speak from personal knowledge of her worth as a teacher, and of her influence as a true woman. In her profession she excelled, and among the many teachers whose labors it has been my duty to supervise, not one has been found whose influence for good over those under her charge was greater than the influence of Mrs. Dewing. Her greatest reward was the pleasure she received in doing good to others.

There has been no change of teachers at the High School during the year, and the continuity of the work done there, in the absence of such change, has told strongly in the amount and quality of the work. At no time since my connection with the schools, has the condition of this school been so satisfactory as at present, under the efficient management of the Principal, aided by his assistants. The most notable feature is the perfect readiness with which the pupils undertake whatever is presented for their consideration. What they do is done with that energy that compels success. Some dissatisfaction has been expressed, and not without reason, with the course of study as it is at present, and some changes will soon be presented for your approval.

It was thought necessary some years ago to devote the first year of the High School course to a review of the Grammar School studies, but owing to the more complete knowledge of these elementary branches attained by our grammar school graduates, this necessity no longer exists, and as soon as the pupils enter they should begin upon High School work.

It is quite customary at the present day on the part of many people to discourage the study of Latin, and to profess to entertain doubts as to its utility as a branch of instruction. I must confess that these doubts have presented themselves at times to my mind ; but upon a careful examination into the matter and consultation with the teachers, I find that as a rule the average rank in other studies of those pupils who study Latin, some of them taking it as an extra study, is higher than the average rank of their classmates, and this fact is presented to you as worthy your careful consideration. It is desirable, also, if the study of Latin is to be pursued, that a longer time be given to it. Two years are now allowed, during which time only a limited knowledge of it can be gained, and at least another year's instruction should be added.

As some misunderstanding arose on the part of the young ladies who were candidates for admission to the last training class, I will briefly explain the method of procedure for the future. It has been customary in the past to admit all graduates of our High School, and some even who had not graduated. Experience has demonstrated the folly of this course, and reason teaches that however well adapted a person may be to manage children, a perfect familiarity with the branches to be taught, together with much general knowledge and liberal culture, is absolutely essential to the highest success. A certain proportion of High School pupils attain to this, but there always has been, is now, and probably always will be, a percentage of good, faithful pupils who can never, although they may attend school for an indefinite period, gain such proficiency as would enable them to become successful as teachers. It is manifestly unfair to refuse diplomas to such good and faithful pupils, who have succeeded fairly well in their studies, but it is manifestly as unfair to the children of the town, to appoint such persons as their instructors, Hereafter, candidates must have graduated from our High School, or from one of equal grade, and must attain an average of eighty per cent. of correct answers on those subjects usually taught in grammar and high schools. After the class is formed, its members will be marked as often as may be thought necessary, one being the highest, and five the lowest mark, and no one will be favorably recommended to you until she receives the highest mark.

The large number of visits made to our schools in previous years still continues, and people from nearly all parts of our country have favored us with their presence. I believe these visits have been productive of much good, and although at times the numbers have seemed excessive, by this means the efficiency of the schools has been increased. It is one of the weaknesses of human nature to love the attention and applause of others. Children especially are susceptible to influences of this kind, and contrary to the experience of many teachers in other places, our children are fully as prompt in recitation in the presence of visitors as when alone with their teacher. By coming in contact with many educators, who frequently question them upon various subjects, the children gain a confidence in themselves, and an acuteness that could be reached in no other way. It is particularly desirable that the parents and friends of the children visit the schools more than has hitherto been the case, as when the children see those whom they love most giving their influence to the school by favoring it with their presence, interest in their work will naturally grow stronger. This suggestion is not made because the parents ignore the schools, for such is not the case ; in fact more of them visit the schools than in any other place I know. Still in some of the districts a certain timidity exists which it is very desirable to overcome. Parents' days are set apart frequently by all the teachers in Quincy, and on such days the attendance is usually large ; but our friends must know that they are not only welcome at such times, but just as welcome at all times. I hope hereafter that all citizens will realize that this is a duty they owe to the schools and to the children who are under their charge.

The question that has continually presented itself to my mind during the past year is, how, considering the disadvantage under which we are laboring in losing so many teachers each year, we can still effect an advancement in our schools. Growth on the part of those connected with the schools and on the part of the schools themselves is their only salvation, as it is a law of nature that nothing can remain the same even for a single day. If we are not advancing all along the line we must surely be retrograding, and I think it very essential that all teachers should realize this. Each teacher is expected daily to ask herself the questions : Is my school growing ? Is it in better condition to-day than it was yesterday ? And what can I do to make it better to-morrow than it is to-day ? Similar questions present themselves continually to the principals concerning the classes in their respective buildings, and all are working together for the good of the whole. The highest praise I can give my fellow teachers is, that whatever they can say or do to benefit one another is said or done with that willingness worthy of persons engaged in so noble a calling, each looking upon herself " not as an isolated and solitary individual, toiling in an unknown and narrow sphere ; but as a member of a great company working for a common end." Petty jealousies do not exist, and the lessons of experiences and ideas newly discovered are freely interchanged. It is folly, however, for teachers to try in any way to imitate one another. The teacher who tries to do a certain thing in a certain way because some one else has done so, is sure to fail, or at least not to meet with the highest success. Individuality is more necessary in the school-room than in any other place ; but in every sphere of life those who succeed best are those who have a well-defined way of their own of accomplishing results.

The teacher must have a high ideal, and work up to that ideal as far as possible. Some writer has said that "in every country of the world there is some sort of general notion of what the men and women in it ought to be, and the men and women turn out accordingly, and the more certainly the more clear the notion is." Precisely so is it with the teacher ; her children will approach the standard to which she would have them attain, be that standard high or low, but as a school they will never go beyond. Sometimes I have asked the young ladies who were preparing to become teachers, to give me a description of their ideal pupil or school, and I have almost invariably found such description to be an index of some young lady's after success or failure.

What is really the end to be attained in this problem of education ? For what object is the child spending so many years of its life in the school-room ? Is it that he may have a knowledge of the branches taught there ? This must be done, and your verdict is that it is well done in our schools ; but there is something above and beyond all this. The real question is not, What have our children done ? but, What can they do ? Are they able, on account of the training they have received, to take any new subject or object of thought and bring all their energies to bear upon it ? That they do attain this degree of power is of vastly greater importance than the knowledge of those subjects by which it has been attained. It is not what we are taught, but the development of mental power, that forms the true end of education, and this result can only be attained by a method in strict accord with the laws of nature.

But above all other things, the teacher should direct her energies to the building up of character in her children. All instruction should have this end in view, and each lesson if properly taught will leave its influence as a means of moral education. No person can in any way be considered a successful teacher, nor her work a complete success, unless each day she can see an increase of moral power in her school, and in each individual child who is in the school. When all teachers feel the great responsibility resting upon them, when they realize that the actions of their children, whether good or bad, in future years may be traced back in a large degree to their influence or neglect, the growth in goodness will be much greater on the part of their pupils. I believe our teachers see that there is infinite opportunity for improvement in this as in all other directions in the future, and that we have but just made a beginning in this grand work of educating the young. The schools of the past have done their work, and much good has been accomplished by them ; but progress is the word, and school-work is changing and will continue to change throughout our whole country. The object of the school of the future will be to make of her pupils men and women, generous, humane, just and benevolent, with all of their faculties equally developed. The teacher who has such an ideal, and a clear and well-defined way of carrying it out, who has the power of originating and of seeing clearly how each time subjects are presented they may be placed before their pupils in a new and better light — that person is to be the teacher of the future.

I wish to acknowledge my indebtedness to the members of this Board, for the cordial support I have received in my endeavors to advance the interests of the children of Quincy,
